

BA Classics

MAJOR: CLASSICS (BACHELOR OF ARTS)

MINORS OFFERED: Classical Studies, Greek, Latin

GRADUATE PROGRAM: Master of Arts in Education (MAE) with K-12 Latin Certification

Students who pursue a Classics major will find themselves deeply immersed in the literature, history, philosophy, art, and cultures of the ancient worlds of Greece and Rome, and can learn ancient Greek and Latin. Students will gain insight beyond their own cultural and historical backgrounds and previous assumptions to re-examine modern-day problems.

LEARN TO READ AND WRITE ANCIENT GREEK AND LATIN

EARN CERTIFICATION
TO TEACH K-12 LATIN
THROUGH THE NEW
LATIN MAE PROGRAM

PRESENT YOUR RESEARCH AT THE CLASSICS CAPSTONE
SYMPOSIUM

SPECIAL COLLECTIONS

Frequent collaborations with Special Collections in Pickler Memorial Library to work with rare, authentic Classics books, like an early printed edition of Vergil's Aeneid from 1502.

Image provided courtesy of Special Collections

SMALL CLASSES = BIG PERSONAL IMPACT

SUPPLEMENTING A CLASSICS MAJOR

Many students combine a Classics degree with majors or minors in complementary fields, such as Linguistics, English, Philosophy & Religion, History, Anthropology, Biology, Computer Science, Economics, or other modern languages.

Join vibrant student organizations, like Classics Club and Eta Sigma Phi, the national collegiate honor society in Classics.

Read ancient works in the original language – like Homer, Plato, Vergil, and the New Testament.

AFTER GRADUATION

A background in classics supports advanced study in many fields and builds a strong foundation for law, medicine, and seminary. Around 63% of graduates from this program immediately enter graduate school or law school.

MORE INFO:

DISTINCT BY DESIGN