

BA/BS Philosophy and Religion

MAJOR: PHILOSOPHY AND RELIGION (BACHELOR OF ARTS / SCIENCE)

ASSOCIATED MINORS: Philosophy and Religion, Legal Studies, Cognitive Science, and others

PRE-PROFESSIONAL INTERESTS: Pre-Law, Pre-MAE

Combining strong foundational skills with a range of multicultural perspectives, students in this program approach modern-day issues with critical thinking and problem-solving skills while displaying an open and ethical mind. The Philosophy and Religion Major is commonly combined with more than one area of study, with double majors commonly including English, psychology, and history, and works well with pre-professional programs in education and health sciences.

WHAT MAKES THIS PROGRAM SPECIAL?

This program helps students foster a broader outlook on the world at large and the many cultures within. Students in this program learn to think critically about larger issues and the social, political, historical, and cultural reasons behind them. This approach helps students to find greater meaning in life and to be productive problem solvers in the world.

Students will find numerous opportunities for internships and independent research, possibly culminating in presentations at the annual Student Research Conference and the annual Undergraduate Philosophy and Religion Conference.

ANDREW FRUEND '25

"The professors in the PHRE department are all incredible and spend time with each student who seeks help and support. I still enjoy reading philosophy papers in my own time because the classes I've taken taught me to love learning. The PHRE program has prepared me well for graduate school and work life. I wouldn't be who I am today without it."

AFTER GRADUATION:

Students who graduate from this program go on to pursue both graduate studies at notable universities as well as promising careers in a wide range of fields, which can include law, business, health, non-profits, public affairs, and many more.
